In response to the need for a functional money skills program which would provide the final step towards competent community participation, the Clarke Road Money Program was developed and trialled by practising teachers.

To save time preparing teaching resources for the Money Aid Card and Meaningful Money Programs two sets of resource masters are in the kit. The masters are designed to be copied onto cardboard to provide sets as required.

Students who can follow a sequence, count to six and match one to one

Features:

Facilitates a basic level of independence in money transactions up to $10

Simplicity - utilises the $2 coin and $5 note only with a Money Aid (cue) Card in the user's wallet to ensure successful transactions

Thoroughness-provides comprehensive instructions, pre-program placement tests, built-in assessment and evaluation with detailed assistance and prompting hierarchy, reproducible masters for recording individual and group progress

Target Population:

Students with developing mathematical concepts who are capable of understanding the dollar component but not necessarily the cents

Features:

Training manual and workbook with functional layout and presentation, placement test, lesson notes, student worksheets at each stage in a bound student workbook, recording sheets to evaluate transaction performance

Target Population:

Students who are capable of understanding dollars and cents and are aware of the value of money

Features:

Placement test, lesson notes, training in the use of all coins and notes and in budgeting realistic amounts of money, cue cards for change management, student worksheets at each stage in a bound student workbook

Meaningful Money and Meaning and Mastery of Money student workbooks contain worksheets for each stage of the teaching programs. The worksheets support the oral and practical lessons outlined in the training manuals.

The Interactive Whiteboard DVD is designed to be an interactive version of the worksheets contained in the workbooks and provide resources for teaching at all levels of the program.
