

High Potential Gifted Education

Creative Domain

At Zig Zag Public School, we are committed to providing High Potential and Gifted Education (HPGE) opportunities in the creative domain, ensuring students can discover, develop and showcase their talents. Students are encouraged to excel through participation in dance, choir and a range of creative arts initiatives that build confidence, collaboration and performance skills. Our students also regularly participate in the Waste to Art competition, where they use innovation and creativity to transform recycled materials into outstanding artworks. We are incredibly proud of their continued success in this competition, with our students frequently receiving awards, including multiple first-place finishes.

These opportunities are complemented by rich classroom programs that provide extension and challenge for students with high potential in the creative domain. Through differentiated teaching and authentic learning experiences, students are encouraged to think creatively, refine their skills and reach their full potential both in and beyond the classroom.
